Project Description

We recently launched a new website for the TechCamp program, after archiving a previous site that contained several years worth of information and content about our program. Now, we need help making this archived content easily accessible and searchable by our team so we can use or share with others as needed. We also need help on migrating some content to the new site, with a nice update or two along the way. The eIntern will design a plan to organize the old website content in a way that is easily searchable by the TechCamp team, and will move relevant and approved content to the new website. In addition, there are numerous post-led and/or mini-TechCamps held around the world which have not been centrally documented. The eIntern will research the past events and propose a plan to document these and future post-led/mini-TechCamps in order to preserve the program's history and reveal its full impact.

Additional Information

The TechCamp program is a Public Diplomacy tool in the Bureau of International Information Programs. TechCamp events are two-day, hands-on, participant-driven workshops that connect technology experts with key populations — journalists, non-governmental organizations, civil society advocates, and more — to explore and apply innovative tech solutions to global issues.
